

Some Further
Comments on the
Jet Bomber Base

Few capitals are as little beloved by their home state as is Little Rock in Arkansas, and one of the prime reasons for this ill will is the arrogance with which the big Arkansas river town deprecates the resources of its small neighbor cities while conveniently misstating the weakness of its own.

For instance, the Arkansas Gazette was saying editorially only last week it was utterly inconceivable that Hope and southwest Arkansas could accommodate the proposed jet bomber base should it be placed here because only in Little Rock were there sufficient public facilities, notably schools.

But the same newspaper unblinkingly printed in its news columns last Sunday this headline:

"Cure for Crowded School Conditions Hinges on Bond Issue Vote."

The critical condition confessed by the Gazette's headline is further verified by an investigation conducted by Hope men of Little Rock's housing situation. It is extremely tight. And when housing is tight you can well imagine that public school facilities are even tighter.

I mention all this simply as proof of the length to which Little Rock will go in making misrepresentations to gain a point over the rest of the state — in this instance the site of the proposed jet bomber base.

When the Gazette scolded Hope for mentioning that its own former military airport, the largest in Arkansas, also is available to the Air Force I suggested that Little Rock was merely venting on us its nervousness over the fact that while the jet base is authorized no money has actually been appropriated.

If there is any doubt about this I can tell you that Senator J. W. Fulbright removed it Wednesday morning when I talked to him for 11 minutes on the Washington phone. Fulbright told me the proposed Little Rock jet base is set up as a 55-million-dollar project, on which the initial payment is to be 23 1/2 million dollars. But this is still merely a figure in the national defense bill which won't actually reach congress until this Friday. So not a single dollar thus far has been appropriated for the Little Rock base.

On Tuesday Defense Secretary C. E. Wilson called for a 4-billion out in the proposed arms budget; and on the same day The Star published a letter received by Congressman Oren Harris from John Tabor, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, in which Mr. Tabor said the government was interested in the Hope airport if it meant a sizable saving, and he means to have our setup looked into by the subcommittee which handles military construction.

I think Little Rock is worried. I think the government means to save money where it can be saved judiciously, and I think Hope is very much in the running for some Air Force utilization of that mammoth air field just north of our town.

Finally, I think you ought to know this:

On March 16 the Wall Street Journal published a coast-to-coast news roundup on the subject of municipal airports, and it found that because of the impending switch of the commercial airlines from piston-powered planes to jetliners virtually every metropolitan airport in the nation would have to be relocated in the next six or seven years.

The great fact-finding financial journal said that jet airliners posed a problem of noise, vibration, and danger which made obsolete all the airports now located close to large cities.

If that is the truth about commercial aviation in the coming age of the jet engine it will inevitably ruin Little Rock's bid for the proposed military jet bomber base.

And if Little Rock is knocked out of the state is betting that Hope is "in."

Horse Falls,
Youth Hurt
Seriously

Charles Wylie, Jr., 11, was seriously injured yesterday when his horse, stambling and fell on him on the Brookwood grade school yard.

Since the accident young Wylie has not regained consciousness. He definitely has a brain concussion but evidently no broken bones. The attending physician said this morning, however, the physician seemed to be hopeful.

The accident occurred while three youths on horseback were playing a game of polo. One of the youngsters cut his horse in front of young Wylie's, and the animal tumbled and fell. The horse rolled completely over him. The rider was rushed to Julia Chester hospital by a Herndon-Cornelius ambulance.

Camden Says
We Can Handle
Bomber Base

Camden's official endorsement of the proposal to have the former military airport reactivated at Hope was received by Mayor John L. Wilson, Jr., today in a letter from Walter H. Laney, mayor of Camden.

The Camden mayor wrote as follows:

"I am very sympathetic with the aspirations of the City of Hope to secure utilization of the airport at your city. The facilities located there, together with the land available, and the labor market at your city, point to many economies which would be effected through the use of these facilities.

"I also read with considerable interest of the contentions, made by some who oppose your endeavor, to the effect that your city would be unable to satisfactorily house the personnel required for an installation utilizing your airport. In this connection I would like to recount the experience which the City of Camden has recently undergone.

"As you know, we are a community of comparable size of the City of Camden has recently undergone.

River Valley
Group to Help
With Airport

H. K. Thatcher, executive vice-president of the Ouachita River Valley association, left Camden today for Washington D. C. where he will confer with members of the Eisenhower Budget Bureau and Washington representatives of the Corps of Engineers on appropriations for the Ouachita River Basin.

Thatcher also plans to have conferences with some of the members of the House Subcommittee of the Appropriations Committee on Civil Functions and Military Contracts. He will also visit with Congressman Oren Harris, W. F. Norrell and Otto Passman whose Districts largely comprise the Ouachita River Basin.

Thatcher will meet a delegation of Hope business men in Washington for the purpose of presenting Hope's plan for the proposed jet bomber base which is scheduled to be located in Arkansas. If a jet bomber base is located in Arkansas the citizens of Hope and southwest Arkansas believe the possibility of utilizing the government-owned air base at Hope should be fully explored before the new base is located elsewhere. The citizens are arranging conferences with mem-

Now a Mole Can Laugh—Atom
Tests Have Proved They Are Certainly Safer Than Man

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Now a mole can laugh at a man.

In the new atomic age the mole is safer.

The test in the Nevada desert proved that.

Man's greatest enemy always has been himself.

From the dawn of time the weapons he created to kill lesser animals, either for food or in self defense, also were used to war against his fellow men.

The club... the spear... the bow and arrow... the rifle... They all served this dual purpose.

Each new weapon he invented gave him a greater edge over all four-footed creatures. To survive they had to dig deeper into the earth... plunge further into the wilds... until at last man had destroyed itself for his own sake.

Separate Plane
Wrecks Fatal
to 33 Persons

ST. JOHN'S Mtd., (UP) — An American B-29 bomber with a crew of 10 crashed into St. George's Bay a few hours after a giant B-30 atomic bomber went down on the Newfoundland coast with 23 persons aboard, the U. S. Air Force revealed today.

The crash of the B-29 bomber was announced shortly after a medical team reached the wreckage of the atomic bomber and reported by radio it had found no survivors. Fishermen who were first to reach the scene had reported finding nine bodies.

There apparently were no survivors in the crash of the B-29, the Air Force said.

The B-29 crashed into St. George's Bay at 6 p. m. last night as it was returning to Harmon Field on Newfoundland's West Coast. It was on a routine mission. A crashboat was sent to search.

Negro Private Decorated for Bravery

WITH THE U. S. 2ND DIVISION, Korea, (UP) — Pvt. Courtney L. Stanley, 20, wore the Silver Star today for saving the life of his battalion commander in a heroic action near Little Gibraltar hill Tuesday.

Maj. Gen. James C. Fry pinned the award on the Negro soldier's shell-tattered field jacket at 2nd Division headquarters. He was called from the front to receive the decoration.

Stanley, route 4, Mansfield, La., stood guard over his wounded battalion commander and two other casualties and killed at least nine Chinese while holding off the attacking Reds. Some of them were in trenches only a few feet away. It was reported here that Stanley also may be recommended for the Distinguished Service Cross.

The battalion commander, a lieutenant colonel, is now hospitalized.

Scout Leaders to Train at Camp Pioneer

A council wide Scout Leaders Training Course will be held this week and at Camp Pioneer near Mena, Ark. The course will open with registration Saturday morning at 9 o'clock and the training will begin at 10 with a session on Patrol and Troop Organization and Leadership. Other instructions will include knife, axe and rope work, fire building, cooking, compass work and other skills. Saturday night will be devoted to Patrol and Troop Camping and Hiking.

First Class Scout Skill will be demonstrated and taught Sunday morning. The course is scheduled to close at 11 a. m. Sunday morning and those attending will be able to attend church in Mena.

Price Control
Out in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Price controls in Arkansas are at an official end.

James W. Swalm, Arkansas director for the Office of Price Stabilization, closed the office here at 5 p. m. yesterday and government supervision officially ended at midnight. President Eisenhower ordered removal of price controls at Washington Feb. 14.

Swalm said some 25 persons employed at the office here had found other jobs.

ishment or safety, came to hunt them for sport.

He made a fugitive of every form of life that wouldn't become his pet.

Now man... with his atom bomb... has made a fugitive of himself... and he is a vulnerable fugitive, huddled in vast herds in vast cities... as vulnerable as the old buffalo herds that once blackened the plains.

It was a small atom bomb they used in Nevada this week... not as large as the ones dropped on Japan... only a tenth as large as some bombs in the American armory... and perhaps the Russian armory, too.

But this bomb set trees on fire a mile away... broke the joints and smashed the windows of a house... and destroyed itself for his own sake.

Bohlen Likely to Find Trouble
on Senate Floor

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats generally applauded the Eisenhower administration today for standing firm on Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen's nomination to be ambassador to Russia, but two Republicans said they may fight it on the Senate floor.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee's 15-0 approval of Bohlen yesterday and Secretary of State Dulles' defense of the nomination were hailed by Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) as the start of a "true bipartisan foreign policy."

Sparkman and Senators Humphrey (D-Minn.) and Mansfield (D-Mont.) said Dulles "met the test," Sparkman added. "It demonstrated."

Urged to Tone
Down Voice
Broadcasts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two "Voice of America" officials told Senate investigators today they were urged last year by Chester Bowles, then ambassador to India, to "tone down" anti-Communist propaganda broadcasts to that troubled nation.

The testimony came from Gerald Doehrer, acting chief of the Voice's service in the Middle East, Africa and Asia, and Stanley S. Ghosh, chief of its India desk.

Doehrer said a memorandum dated last June confirmed that Bowles "urged that we refrain from anti-Communist propaganda."

The two witnesses went before the Senate investigations subcommittee, headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.). The group has been hunting for alleged waste and subversion in the State Department's Voice program.

Ghosh said he refused to comply with the directive and "had no qualms" because he believed it was unsound.

It came, he said, when the United States was under particularly heavy attack from Communist propagandists in India.

Russians Are Photographing
West Europe

By PHIL NEWSOM
UP Foreign News Editor

The Russians are making regular photographic reconnaissance flights over strategic areas of Western Europe.

American Air Force sources at Wiesbaden, Germany, say their radar screens have picked more than 100 strange aircraft. Some were Allied craft and others were commercial airplanes which had strayed off the beam.

But others were Russian. Air Force sources say these flights come almost any night when the weather is bad.

Then the Russians come overflying very high to photograph allied installations by infra red film. The weather makes interception impossible.

Security forbids even an estimate of the number of Soviet planes picked up by all Allied radar in Western Europe. But they are the European equivalent of the recent disclosure that Soviet jets have been leaving their vapor trails over Alaska.

Russian and satellite planes also crossed the Iron Curtain in the past.

Ike Welcomes
Any Sincere
Peace Move

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower said today that recent Soviet expressions of peace intentions were welcomed by this country to the extent that they are sincere.

He said that if the Soviet Union wants peace, it would always be met halfway by his administration.

The President, at his fourth news conference since taking office, volunteered his opinions on recent attacks by Russian-made MIG-15 jet fighters on American and British planes.

He said as far as this government could detect, the plane incidents reflected no different attitude from the past.

The President reminded his news conference that before he was elected he had promised that his administration would be happy to examine sincerely any Soviet peace proposals.

Reporters reminded him that to—

Russia Offers
Prize for
U. S. Planes

BERLIN (UP) — Russia was reported today to have offered a reward of 25,000 rubles to Soviet or satellite pilots who force down Western Allied fighters or bombers over Communist territory.

Sources close to the Soviet Control Commission said orders had been received from Moscow for Soviet and satellite pilots to force down all Western Allied military aircraft which stray over Communist territory.

The Soviet Control Commission is the Russian agency which runs the military and civilian occupation of the Soviet east zone of Germany for the Kremlin. It is roughly the equivalent of the U. S. High Commission for Germany, except that the Russian place much greater emphasis on the military occupation of their zone.

The stern Soviet orders were said to have been issued in retaliation for the detention by the West of a Russian-built MIG.

Teachers Hear
Tax Revision
Discussed

The cost of every phase of education in Arkansas has tripled during the past 10 years, U. S. Commissioner of Education, Harold H. Killebrew, told Hope High School teachers at a meeting in Hope Junior High School library on March 17 at 7 p. m.

Mr. Jones discussed the Tax Revision Bill to be placed on the ballot in November, 1954. He also brought out features of the revised stabilization act. Funds to be allocated to each school district will be determined at a meeting of the State Board of Education on March 23.

Miss Kay Camp gave a report on UNESCO. Mrs. Frank Mason, local CTA president, discussed the goals for the NEA Centennial program, which will be observed in 1957. The local association voted to accept these goals.

March 27 was announced as the date of the District 3 AEA meeting in Magnolia. Plans are being made for a district organization at this time. Columbia, Miller, Hempstead and Lafayette counties compose this district.

Mrs. Frank Mason presided over the meeting. Mrs. Elmer Whitehead, hospital chairman, was in charge of serving refreshments.

Dead Leader

By DANIEL F. GILMORE

VIENNA, Austria (UP) — The body of Czechoslovak Dictator, Klement Gottwald, was put in a marble tomb today at a Stalin-like funeral, with his successor as president still unchosen.

Work was halted throughout Czechoslovakia for five minutes when the funeral ceremony started at 1 p. m. (7 a. m. EST) for the man who betrayed his country to the Russians and followed his idol Stalin to the grave.

The funeral ceremony was reported by the official Prague Communist Radio.

Vice Premier and Slovak Communist Premier, Viliam Slepak, delivered the eulogy for Gottwald before the body was taken from the Spanish hall of Hradany Castle, where it had lain in state, to its burial place in the marble-walled monument of liberation.

Tremor Felt
Over Wide Area;
Homes Levelled

ISTANBUL, Turkey (UP) — A violent earthquake shook Western Turkey last night and unofficial reports today said from 500 to 1,000 persons perished. President Celal Bayar left Ankara with government officials for the stricken region.

Zahmi Argon, Red Cross official (Red Cross information office) said telegraphed reports from the scene estimated the dead at 500. He said these reports were unconfirmed. Two Istanbul newspapers estimated the death toll at 1,000.

The quake apparently centered around Bulkesir, across the Sea of Marmara from Istanbul, and near the World War I battlefield of Gallipoli. Police at Bulkesir said by phone there were 3,000 killed dead in the towns of Genclik and Manyas, but that there was no contact with the towns of Yalce and Cihan, believed to have been even harder hit.

Farmers Have Their Work All Cut Out

ROCK (A) — The nation's farmers have their work cut out for them.

The blunt fact is that the baby boom is outstripping the food crop. The word from farm officials is that the present abundance of food is only temporary.

Dr. Byron Shaw, head of the U.S. Agricultural Department's research work, estimated 3,889,000 babies were born in this country last year, a record crop. By 1975 the population is expected to have 100 million people.

Dr. Shaw says U.S. farmers must raise one-third more food than in 1950 if they are to feed the many people.

Dr. Shaw says good farming is virtually exhausted, so that increased production on available land is a problem which must be solved.

G. A. Vance, associated director of the State Agricultural Extension Service, says he is completely convinced that Arkansas and other states can raise enough food to meet needs of an expanding population.

Vance says farmers in this and other states should have no difficulty in meeting the challenge provided they continue good leadership, scientific information and a sound educational program.

Dr. Shaw says one hour of farm labor in Arkansas last year produced...

Glenwood Man Fatally Injured

MARION, Ind., (A) — William Wischunt, 28, of Glenwood, Ark., was injured fatally near here today when the automobile in which he was riding crashed into a culvert.

State police quoted Paul Kirkpatrick, 19, of Amity, Ark., driver of the automobile, as saying he apparently dozed off while driving along Highway 18, 10 miles east of here.

He said Wischunt was asleep in the back seat of the automobile at the time of the accident.

Police said Kirkpatrick was uninjured.

Supplemental irrigation proved a boon to experimentation in cotton at the University of Arkansas Cotton Branch experiment state at Marianna. Results of tests conducted last summer show that supplemental irrigation increased yields of seed cotton by 68 per cent.

The investigations were conducted on Richland soil loam. The effects of both fertilization and irrigation were measured. Non-irrigated plots produced an average of 1,003 pounds of seed cotton per acre, compared to 2,600 on irrigated land.

Sidelights: Howard D. Baldrige of Monette, Ark., has been appointed research assistant at the University of Arkansas' Alfalfa Substation in Osceola. He will assist with research work on cotton and alfalfa.

Arkansas farmers may grow more sweet potatoes this year due to high prices—$3.00 a bushel—received for the vegetable throughout 1952.

13th Girl, May Just Adopt Son

By ROBERT D. CLARK
PITTSFIELD, Me. (A) — Lloyd Brooks looked at his newborn 13th daughter today and decided that "if we're ever going to have a son, guess we'll have to adopt one."

But Brooks said he was nonetheless pleased with the arrival last night of 8-pound, 2-ounce Lorene Avia.

When his new daughter's arrival was announced, the 37-year-old, 550-awake textile worker dashed happily up to the delivery room of Orono hospital in Waterville.

"I knew it would be another girl," Both the baby and Mrs. Brooks were reported doing well. The mother, who is 37, tips the scales at 100 pounds.

The other 12 Brooks girls rejoice that the newborn is a sister and not a brother.

The oldest, 18-year-old Eunice, exclaimed: "If she had been a boy we'd have had to send her back. Boys are always fighting."

The new baby was scheduled to be born at home but at the last moment it was decided to transfer Mrs. Brooks to the hospital because Alma, 14, came down with the German measles.

Dr. Frank E. Hascom, who delivered the baby, said Mrs. Brooks may be permitted to return home next Sunday. The baby, however, will be kept at the hospital until Alma's measles clear up.

The Brooks live in a converted schoolhouse of four rooms—three rooms and a bath downstairs and an unfinished room upstairs.

Mrs. Brooks' father, 78-year-old Benjamin Webb, lives with them. In addition the family keeps two dogs, two cats and a guinea pig.

The Brooks were married in 1937. Besides the newborn, Eunice and Alma, the Brooks children are Elaine, 15, Ervina, 11, Rosalie, 9, Janice and Janet, 8-year-old twins, Donna, 7, Hazel, 6, Rae Jean, 4, Eleanor, 3, and Joyce Ella, 1½.

Dad and Mother Brooks expressed gratitude for gifts they have been receiving to help eke out their family livelihood. Brooks hasn't had work in recent days.

Electric generators have been provided as attachments to power lawn mowers and gardening machines by some manufacturers for use when normal electric power is disrupted by storms and other causes.

Junior Evening Fellowship has meeting recently

There were 45 Methodist Juniors and three visitors present for Junior Evening Fellowship Tuesday evening, March 17, at 8:30 in the recreation rooms of the Methodist Church.

Following a snack supper with Mrs. Mable Laughlin and Mrs. Forest Blair in charge, folk games were played. Rev. V. D. Keeley conducted a class on the meaning of church membership.

Mrs. J. W. Perkins, Mrs. Kenny McKee, Mrs. Carl Jones, Miss Kathleen Broach, Patricia McGilli and J. H. Henry directed dramatics art, and group study.

Lilac Garden Club meets at Country Club

The Lilac Garden Club met Wednesday afternoon at the Hope Country Club with Mrs. Graydon Anthony as hostess.

Mrs. A. E. Slusser, president, opened the meeting by having the members repeat the club creed. The Lord's Prayer was then led by Mrs. Floyd Porterfield. Reports were heard from the various committees and discussion was held on the picnic to be held in June at Fair Park. The secretary, Mrs. B. L. Rettig, read the minutes.

The program chairman, Mrs. Dewey Camp, introduced Mrs. Labroy Spates, a guest, who discussed flower arranging. Assisted by Mrs. K. E. Ambrose she then arranged the flowers brought by each member.

Mrs. Rettig gave an article on "Trees of the USA" taken from "Keep Arkansas Green." Mrs. Thomas Kinser gave an original article on "How to Grow Roses."

Arrangements of spring flowers were used throughout the club room.

In carrying out the green color scheme, angel food cake, lime sherbet, and nuts were served to 18 members and one guest, Mrs. Labroy Spates.

Clubs

De Roan
The March session of the DeRoan Home Demonstration club met at the home of Mrs. Theo Burns, 707 South Elm Street. Mrs. Cliff Stewart, clothing leader, gave a very interesting demonstration on making draperies by hand.

Mrs. Buck Rogers, president, opened the meeting by group repeating the American Creed. The song, "Arkansas Traveler," was sung. The devotionals were read by Mrs. John Vocum followed by the Lord's Prayer led by Mrs. Sam Roach.

During the business meeting, the Talent Night program to be held April 17 was discussed. The club agreed to sell Holand's Magazine to help out on the tour to New Orleans in July.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses Mrs. Sam Roach and Hazel Arnett to 13 old members and one guest, Mrs. Taylor. Three new members were welcomed into the club, Mrs. Allen Gee, Jr., Mrs. Martin Green, and Mrs. James Heiler. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. James Lauter.

bach, 820 Foster Avenue, April 18.

Columbus
The Columbus Home Demonstration club met at 2 Monday afternoon with the president, Mrs. B. C. Webb, presiding.

The group sang "The More We Get Together" led by Mrs. Eugene Goodlett. The devotionals were given by Miss Beulah Hicks. Fourteen members answered the roll call with "How I plan to improve my home this year."

During the business meeting the Talent Night program was discussed. Mrs. B. C. Webb demonstrated to the group the making of draperies. Mrs. J. E. Delaney displayed some beaded rugs she is making. Mrs. T. M. McCorkle directed games with Mrs. Frank Delaney winner. The hostess served refreshments to members and Mrs. Eugene Goodlett of Cross Roads was a guest.

Green Lasefer

Green Lasefer Home Demonstration club met at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Collier Thursday night, March 12. The devotionals were given by the hostess followed with prayer by Mrs. Fred Hunt.

During the regular order of business, Mrs. Hunt, president and Mrs. Ernest Culp gave a full report of the progress of the accomplishments made on the club house.

A demonstration on making draperies was given by Mrs. Harold Walker and Mrs. John Hartfield. Mrs. Ruth Johnson gave the program on being a good hostess and tips on housekeeping. Games were directed by Mrs. Herbert Hartfield.

There were 12 members present and after outlining plans for the Talent Night program to be held Friday night, April 17, the hostess served refreshments. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Harold Walker, 108 Spruce Street, with Mrs. Ruth Johnson, co-hostess.

Hopewell

Mrs. J. V. Keck presented a program on new fabrics and finishes found on the market today when Hopewell Home Demonstration club met March 12 at the home of Mrs. E. W. Graham with 8 members, 1 new member, Mrs. Charles Adkins, and 1 visitor, Mrs. Joe Barham, present.

Mrs. Keck stressed the point that women should remember when buying blended fabrics to look for and study the label. Beware of any fabrics that fail to show the percentage of synthetics and other materials included in the fabric. To be assured of satisfaction the synthetic should be at least 50 per cent of the make-up, and the greater the amount of synthetic the better. Nylon is stronger than orlon but is not as cool and the blended materials are cooler than 100 per cent synthetics. People who think they are allergic to nylon are actually suffering from heat. When Nylon garments fit snugly the perspiration is not absorbed by the Nylon garment and heat results. Nylons can stand hotter water than rayons and sometimes we fail to wash them clean thus they become yellowed and dingy. Nylon should never be dried over heat or in direct sunlight. Mrs. Keck concluded her discussion by stating that Pima cottons blended with synthetics make a cool blend and that Wacron is the top blender with wool. Men's suits of Dacron and wool are proving to be very popular.

Mrs. Graham served a sandwich plate after which the group adjourned to meet at the Experiment Station club house in April for an all day meeting and work shop.

DOROTHY DIX

Teenage Popularity

Dear Miss Dix: My girl friend and I have been chums for years and are constantly together. She is 16 and so am I. We live in a small town. She is a very cute girl, and is popular with boys, while I am not. I think I'm a little jealous of her popularity. The boys are friendly to me, but rarely ask for dates, while she is invited out quite a bit. Naturally, this leaves me alone. When she has a date Saturday or Sunday, I stay home. Sometimes she turns dates down just so I won't feel left out of everything.

Answer: You have become entirely too dependent on one girl friend. The thing for you to do is go with other girls, widen your circle of acquaintances and don't keep yourself tied up exclusively to one pal. If your chum continues to refuse dates out of consideration for you, she will eventually become tired of you, and your beautiful friendship will end.

Join School Groups
Perhaps you are too shy to get out on your own. You must begin to overcome that fault now. Get into a group activity at school. If your friend has a date on Saturday night don't, for heaven sake, continue your practice of sitting at a drugstore counter feeling sorry for yourself. Find out where the rest of the girls are going. If it's skating, get out your skates! If they happen to be looking for something to do, invite them to your house for an evening of records and fudge. Don't advertise the fact that you feel forlorn.

Don't let your girl friend realize that your feeling for her is tinged with envy. Be happy for her popularity, and you'll be surprised how soon some of it may be reflected on you.

Sixteen is no age to feel lonely; you just haven't acquired the experience to deal with a condition so remote from natural teenage existence.

Dear Miss Dix: My husband and I have recently obtained a separation because I was in love with Phil, who also loves me. I have two children, Phil has one. The idea, of course was that Phil should get a divorce, so should I, and we would be married. Now, however, he seems to be kidding me along by postponing his decision. I know I'll never love anyone but Phil.

Answer: It is very hard to be in your position. You must realize that you are not alone. Many women have been in your position and have come through it successfully.

Dear Miss Dix: I have just undergone a heartbreaking experience. After our wedding date was set, my fiance made plans to leave his mother, asked for a divorce. He is 25, I am 24. We have been seeing each other since we were 18. We have a beautiful home, but no money. My parents feel we have been rescued from a unhappy future, but I am heartbroken.

Answer: Heartbreak now is much easier to bear than it would be after marriage. It appears that you have been rescued from marriage with a son who hasn't a mind of his own, and you should count it a blessing, not a tragedy.

Released by Bell Syndicate, Inc.

Do you think it is worthwhile for me to wait for him?

Answer: Two broken homes per woman is about par for the course and it seems as if you won't quite make it. You sure are being kidded, but not nearly as much by Phil as by yourself. You apparently are living with illusions of a great love affair between you and Phil, which turns out to be nothing but a sordid mess. Advice to you is useless; you're sold on a dream and will continue in it until you awake to find it's a real nightmare.

Dear Miss Dix: I have just undergone a heartbreaking experience.

Answer: Heartbreak now is much easier to bear than it would be after marriage. It appears that you have been rescued from marriage with a son who hasn't a mind of his own, and you should count it a blessing, not a tragedy.

the quota is reached, but no more. Collins said the purpose of the new policy is "to freeze the number of outlets at the current level." He said that when liquor permits are surrendered or canceled by the Board in those counties which have exceeded their quota the permits will not be re-issued. "The quota system is the only way that we can exercise tight control over the distribution of liquor in Arkansas," said Collins. "And we feel that is what the Legislature expected us to do when they established this department."

Collins also said that henceforth the liquor permits would not be issued to any person who already owns one.

hours. Some of these flights are the result of navigational mistakes in planes whose 600-plus mph speed makes positional error occasionally unavoidable on border patrols.

But others are deliberate. The Baltic is one particularly busy area of Communist reconnaissance and activity. The Russians have four bases in their zone of Austria and they are frequently over the American, British and French zones of Austria. There have been no protests except in the notable case of a Soviet fighter buzzing the plane carrying the then U. S. High Commissioner Walter Dornan through the corridor from Vienna to Linz in the American sector.

Unidentified planes have been sighted over southwestern Sweden. Last June two Swedish planes, both unarmed, were shot down over international waters in the Baltic.

Swedish protests resulted only in a series of charges and counter-charges which got the Swedes nowhere except that their patrol planes carry guns and bullets. Denmark also has been crossed by unidentified planes. Russian bases are located only about 35 miles south of the Danish islands of Bornholm, Lolland and Falster. Yugoslavia has made numerous protests to her Communist neighbors against unauthorized flights over her territory.

However, most of the violations group of advisers that Truman's $40 billion military program won't give the country the kind of security it needs in the face of Russian attitudes.

Marines Rout Entire Red Company

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

SEOUL, (AP) — U. S. Marines riding striking in pre-dawn fog and rain with flamethrowers and bayonets, smashed a Chinese company today as the Reds grouped for an assault on Allied Western Front positions.

The U. S. Eighth Army communique late today reported the raid followed two company-size Chinese attacks on Marine positions shortly after midnight.

It said the Chinese overran the northern flank of a forward position southwest of Bunker Hill, but that the Reds were forced to withdraw after a three-hour fight in which 40 Chinese were counted killed, 50 more estimated killed and 65 estimated wounded. A second Chinese company hit a forward position northeast of Bunker Hill but was hurled back after losing nine men, the Eighth Army said.

"We killed a lot of them," said one of the raiders Pfc. William W. Weitzel of Sinking Springs Pa. "We could hear their wounded moaning out beyond the wire."

The Marines, wearing armored vests, began their raid behind heavy artillery and tank fire. Then the men carrying the flamethrowers moved out.

"We spotted fighting holes and bunkers by the light of our own throwers," said one. "We really scorched that area for the men moving in behind us."

Behind the flamethrowers came raiders with fixed bayonets. They leaped into the smoking trenches and bunkers and battled the Chinese for more than an hour. They said the Reds who were able finally ran.

Railmen Get 4-Cent-Hour Wage Boosts

WASHINGTON (UP) — A railroad labor leader predicted today that unions in other industries will try to match the four-cent-an-hour pay hike awarded to the nation's 1,300,000 railroad workers.

W. P. Kennedy, chief of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said he expects the principle of the "productivity" pay hike to be taken up in other industries by "unions who watched the pay decision with keen interest."

"We think the decision will extend productivity beyond the railroads," Kennedy said. "Workers in other industries should be given the same recognition our men got."

Governor Referee Paul M. Guthrie yesterday granted the rail workers a four-cent boost retroactive to last Dec. 1 in a ruling that was final and binding on both parties. Guthrie was named by former President Truman to rule on the pay issue under terms of labor contracts throughout the industry.

Railroad management estimated the increase would boost future payroll costs by $120,000,000 a year with the retroactive wage payment costing about $14,000,000.

Neither management nor officials of the 18 unions involved expressed pleasure at the award.

A. J. Bier, an official of the Southeastern Carriers' Conference committee said he did "not see how you could justify an increase." The carriers fought against any raise during extensive hearings before Guthrie.

Kennedy and J. P. Shields, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, both asserted the raise was too high.

Like So Far Hasn't Criticized

WASHINGTON (AP)—Shortly after President Eisenhower took office, he plainly stated at the White House that the administration would not permit itself to be drawn into a public controversy with Congress.

It was said in reply to a question by newsmen against a "no comment" attitude in the White House at a time when it seemed there was a difference in views between the administration and some Republicans in Congress.

From then until now, almost two months later, Eisenhower has not publicly said a critical word about Congress or any of its members or committees.

It then seems clearly the policy of the administration is to keep its hands off Congress if not at all costs, at least as long as possible.

Which means: Try to persuade Congress to his way of thinking on an issue and, if he can't, then to compromise. He has not decided whether he'll follow this policy at all costs because no differences between the White House and Congress on a truly major issue have yet arisen.

That Eisenhower feels he has been successful with his policy so far was evident from what he said yesterday at a luncheon of a group of businessmen.

He spoke proudly of a noticeable day-by-day increase in cooperation between the Capitol and the executive department and he said he knows it is also felt in Congress.

This would seem to be the answer to those who wondered when Eisenhower would assert leadership, by pressure or criticism or demands or even a firm stand, when things seemed to be going wrong for him in Congress.

He may be trying to take a long view of his job: He'll be in the White House four years; his major problem will be to keep the country sound economically and successful in foreign affairs.

If that's his viewpoint then, as long as he achieves those two objectives he may feel it's not worth fussing about if he suffers setbacks on minor points which may seem important at the moment but aren't in the long view.

If he lets the lawmakers run over him on those minor issues, without protesting or antagonizing any of them, he may feel he will have a reservoir of good will in Congress when the major issues arise.

Which raises a question, of course: Can he go on indefinitely, avoiding any conflict with Congress, without in the end seeing Congress take over the leadership and run the whole show, leaving him on the sidelines?

In a place like Washington, events which occur in a period of comparative quiet are apt to seem larger than they really are.

Eisenhower's two months in office have been comparatively quiet. For one thing, he and the people he brought in with him have been trying to get adjusted to their new jobs and responsibilities.

And Congress, except for some investigations which got attention, has been mostly busy with the routine job of preparing legislation to be voted on in the late spring and summer.

Since the events which did occur have been few, there has been more time for the public eye to give each a maximum of attention. This meant more time for speculating on, and magnifying, the significance of what has happened.

Actually, there have been some bumbles in relations between the White House and Congress, but they can be put down to inexperience. In some instances Eisenhower's own Republicans went contrary to him or ignored him.

Appointment of Stephen Garren as produce buyer for the Little Rock branch of the Kroger Co. has been announced by William L. Myers, branch manager.

Garren

Garren joined the company's fresh fruit and vegetable buying organization, Wesco Foods Co., in Pompano, Fla., in 1950 as an inspector and assistant buyer. Later that year he entered the produce merchandising department of the Kroger Roanoke, Va., branch and last year came to Little Rock as assistant produce buyer.

In his new position, Garren will be responsible for buying of fresh fruit and vegetable items for the 57 Kroger stores in the Little Rock branch area.

HENRY FORD'S PROGRAM

It would be of value to know what ideas motivate Henry Ford II. He has apparently developed an economic program which, if carried out, would completely alter the economic and social character of the American society. Undoubtedly, Mr. Ford has no such intentions, but his program can have no other consequence.

What kind of a man Henry Ford II is, I do not know. He has inherited from his grandfather and father one of the greatest enterprises in the world. He has a large voice in the affairs of that curiously named American institution, The Ford Foundation.

What his own contribution to American society can be is yet to be seen. Where his name is not Henry Ford, it is doubtful whether his Four Point Program would be worthy even of his name, but the name, Henry Ford, is respected and admired because of the enormous achievements of the grandfather.

Furthermore, the Ford Company and The Ford Foundation possess huge and potent facilities to promote his notions.

Henry Ford II's Four Point Program is as follows:

1. Abolish all tariffs;
2. Abolish all immigration quotas;
3. Banish the Buy American Program;
4. Simplify customs restrictions.

Let us analyze this program: The American tariff has been a permanent institution in the American economy since Alexander Hamilton wrote his report on manufactures when George Washington was President. Wherever other areas of the Earth exploited by the economic imperialism rampant in the 18th and 19th centuries, the tariff wall protected the United States from that peril.

By preventing dumping of European and Asiatic commodities into our market, we have been able to build the largest industrial establishment in the world.

It is true that the necessity for tariffs on particular commodities changes from time to time. For instance, today a tariff on hats, ceramics, watches, briar pipes, is more important than a tariff on walnuts. In a word, the tariff by itself is neither good nor bad, vicious nor virtuous. It is the tariff on particular commodities in relation to social and economic conditions in this country that matters.

Our wage scale and standard of living is based on the prevention of the rich American market by coming a dumping ground for cheap slave labor. It would be possible to destroy even the automobile industry, which does not require the protection of a tariff, by throwing thousands of workers out of employment because of the dumping of foreign goods into this country.

Now, we come to the abolition of all immigration quotas. Precisely, what kind of an immigration system would Mr. Ford propose? We are living in an age of war, of the displacement of vast numbers of human beings. The situation is brutal and touches the heartstrings of all humane people.

What, then, does Mr. Ford mean? He would like to have a country where the rights of the public generally are to that portion of a certain area running north from East 10th Street to Terrell Street in Block 2, Brown's Addition, in the City of Hope, Arkansas, and for other purposes.

WHEREAS, an Ordinance was duly and properly filed with the City Council of Hope, Arkansas, by McDowell Turner and all other property owners abutting on the said street, to vacate the said street, and extend the same to Terrell Street in Block 2, Brown's Addition, in the City of Hope, Arkansas, according to the plat recorded in Misc. Book 2, page 44, Hempstead County Recorder's Office, praying that said alley be vacated and abandoned; and

WHEREAS, after due notice as required by law and after having continued this matter until this date and after having heard all persons desiring to be heard on the question, the Council has ascertained that said alley has not been used by the public, that all of the owners of property abutting on said alley have filed with the Council their written consent of such abandonment and that the public interest and welfare will not be adversely affected by said abandonment.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF HOPE, ARKANSAS:

SECTION 1 That the City of Hope, Arkansas, hereby releases, vacates and abandons all its rights, together with the rights of the public generally, in and to that portion of a certain area running north from East 10th Street to Terrell Street in Block 2, Brown's Addition, in the City of Hope, Arkansas, according to the plat recorded in Misc. Book 2, page 44, Hempstead County Recorder's Office.

SECTION 2 That this ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Tigers Jinx to National Teams

By BEN PHEGAR A.P. Sports Writer

When they were moving the franchises maybe somebody should have shifted Detroit to the National League.

The 1953 Tigers can beat National League teams—seven victories in seven exhibition games. They can't beat American League teams—three losses in three exhibition games.

Last year's Tigers couldn't beat American League teams very often either. They lost 104 times in their own social circle, and finished last.

Apparently what Detroit needs is to label all opponents "St. Louis Cardinals." In 18 innings this spring the Cards haven't been able to get a run off Detroit pitching.

Yesterday the Tigers beat the Cardinals, 5-0. Last week they beat them, 4-0. In the two games St. Louis has managed only nine hits.

Dick Marlowe and Dave Madison, who joined the Tigers from the St. Louis Browns last season, gave up six yesterday as Walt Dropp, Jackie Crawford and Keith Little chipped in with home runs.

Frank Lane of the White Sox made such a smart move in signing his new third baseman, Vern Stephens, to an escalator contract in which the veteran will be rewarded for playing in a certain number of games.

When Stephens balked at the contract offered him—it called for a healthy cut of the salary paid him by the Boston Red Sox last season—Lane induced him to sign by promising an extra $2,000 if he played in as many as 100 games and $5,000 for 120 games.

Stephens appeared in only 92 for Boston last year, when he was hampered by a bad knee.

"Frank might find himself in an awkward position before the season is over," quipped his rival official, who requested anonymity.

"There are several possibilities. What if the Sox are out of the race a week before it ends and want to try out some rookie infielders and Stephens is only two or three games shy of that final $3,000? Will Stephens decide whether he plays third, or will Manager Phil Richards? It could develop into the finest row of the year."

Stephens, incidentally, looks in good shape after a long training seige in the heat of the Imperial Valley, and says he is confident his knee will stand up. It will have to if the Sox are to have a chance.

At least one night out this new.

Adenauer Fights for Approval

By The Associated Press

"Chattanooga's Lookouts" took a 5-3 beating yesterday at the hands of a team singing its swan song as the Milwaukee Brewers of the American Association.

The Brewers have been transferred to Toledo in the shift that sends the Boston Braves to Milwaukee.

The game was played at Winter Garden, Fla.

Little Rock's shortstop Jackie Graham hit a homerun with the bases loaded in an intrasquad game at Lakeland, Fla. But it didn't win the ball game. The other crowd won, 10-5.

Motile, training at Vero Beach, Fla. plays an exhibition game today with Miami of the Florida International League.

Body of Sailor Enroute Home

PORT LYAUTEY French Morocco

The body of a Dover, Ark. sailor, found floating in a stream near here March 12, is on its way to his home and burial.

Police here said they believed James Riley Owen, 26-year-old gunner's mate, second class, was murdered. They are awaiting a finding in an investigation board before going on record.

Owen was last seen Feb. 28 in a local bar. His body was found floating in a stream within the U. S. Naval Reservation here clothed only in underwear, socks, and shoes.

Authorities said he is survived by his mother Mrs. Ora Zell Owen of Rt. 1, Dover, Ark.

It is estimated that about 70 per cent of the meat eaten in North Carolina is pork.

Estate, administered by his widow, Mrs. Fannie E. Brooks. The money represents the balance due to Brooks for the cottonseed which the penitentiary had borrowed on March 9, 1919.

Oscar Awards to Be Passed Out Tonight

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD UP—Tonight's the night the movies and television get married, with the rites taking place at the 24th annual ceremony of Academy Awards.

For the first time, a television audience estimated NBC at 40 million persons will watch the movie industry's biggest show. It will mark the TV debut for scores of the biggest names in moviedom.

Studios have given blanket clearance for their stars to be seen on television—almost a naughty word in movie circles not too long ago.

Fourteen TV cameras—the same number used for the national political conventions—will greet the emceed and minked movie queens.

Six cameras will be in New York to catch Shirley Booth, a favorite, or any one else who wins. Frederic March, a two-time winner himself, will present the New York Oscars. Jose Ferrer, nominated for "Moulin Rouge," will be in the New York show.

But Davis, recuperating from jaw surgery in a New York hospital, will give a 30-second radio acceptance speech if she gets the nod for her performance in "The Star," which would make her the only three-time winner.

Of the top 10 actresses and actors up for the big plums, only Joan Crawford "Sudden Fear" will be at the Hollywood shindig.

The NBC telecast goes on the air at 7:30 p. m. (10:30 p. m., EST) and stays on until finished, approximately two hours. RCA-Victor, picking up the $250,000 sponsor's tab, will also sponsor a radio broadcast.

That bit of irony became possible when three of the major movie studios refused financial support for the academy show.

Who's going to win?

Most experts pick Miss Booth, Gary Cooper and "High Noon" to cop the three top Oscars.

J. pick Joan Crawford, while fully admitting the greatness of Miss of Hope. During World War II the Naval Ammunition Depot was established here and at one time more than 27,000 people were engaged in the construction of this project. Several years after the war the project was placed on a standby basis. Soon after the inception of the Korean war the plant was reactivated and more than 100 million dollars have been expended in completing the plant. More than 5,000 workers have been, and are employed in the construction and operation of this plant.

"The housing problem has been, from the beginning, satisfactorily met by this community. We have been able to accomplish this by reason of several circumstances. In the first place, a large percentage of those employed in the construction and operation of the naval plant live in outlying communities within a radius of 50 miles of Camden. These people have no immediate or serious housing problem as they commute daily to their work at the plant. In the second place, private interests have been more than willing to provide such additional housing in the City of Camden as has proved necessary. This has been true to such an extent that there are now several hundred houses in the City of Camden available for immediate occupancy. At no time during the period of reactivation of the plant has the problem of housing presented any

I think Cooper is a shoo-in but I like "The Quiet Man" for the best picture.

Longshot special is "The Greatest Show on Earth." Many agree that sentimental Hollywood will honor the first Cecil B. DeMille epic ever to be nominated. Few want to repeat the oversight that let D. W. Griffith go to his grave unhonored.

unsurmountable difficulty here.

"I feel certain that your experience would be similar to ours in the event a large government installation was located at, or near, your city. I also understand that the immigration of workers and personnel for the operation of such an activity would be considerably less than we have experienced."

"We naturally feel a community of interest with the people of Hope by reason of the fact that we consider you as one of our best neighbors; however, aside from this, we would like to see all the factors taken into consideration to the end that as much money can be saved for the government as possible, and we feel that the facilities already available to your city could be utilized in order to effect a very considerable saving to our government."

modern concrete and wooden house nearly a mile and a half distant. Such a baby bomb... but a deadly baby bomb... can now be fired in an artillery shell. Hitler had it during the aerial battle of Britain. The British would be slaves today... If Hitler had it when he attacked Russia, the Nazi banner would probably be flying over a ruined Kremlin today... and Stalingrad would have been a rubble of defeat instead of a rubble of victory.

What can a man do against the atom bomb? He is safest in a foxhole... but he can abandon his great cities and build his new homes and schools and churches in foxholes? A few wealthy husbands can buy an abandoned lead mine near Joplin, Mo., and turned it into a cozy retreat... but can 50 million husbands do it? In the new civilization he has erected, man is less equipped for survival than the woodchuck, the fox, the earthworm... or the mole. They have their burrows dug.

And if they have any real sense of humor they might get a wry laugh at the final foolishness of man... caught in a web spun out of mutual fear.

The energy of the atom can be used to turn the earth in a garden of plenty... or a wasteland in which all men become fugitives from their own ingenuity. The mole, the woodchuck... the fox... They wait in their burrows... Either way they are ready... Mankind definitely isn't.

ed the influence of the administration when it chooses to exercise it."

But Senators McCarthy (R-Wis) and Bridges (R-N.H.) protested the committee's vote of approval on Dulles' evaluation of an FBI field report on Bohlen. They said the committee should have insisted on seeing the report itself.

With admitted prospects for only a handful of opposition votes, McCarthy and Bridges talked about carrying their fight to the Senate floor next Monday.

McCarthy said President Eisenhower should read the FBI report on Bohlen, adding:

"It's difficult from a security standpoint to discuss some phases of the case, but we are forced to do it. If the President read the file, he would withdraw the name." But Dulles told a closed session of the committee yesterday. Sparkman said that he had read the file and there was not a single thing in it that would cast the slightest suspicion on Bohlen.

Music Critic Has Imagination

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., (UP)—Student Reviewer James Stetler of Wesleyan University was credited today with being one of the most imaginative reporters on the campus newspaper.

Stetler's review of the Hartford Symphony Orchestra, which appeared in yesterday's edition of the Argus.

For the most part, Stetler said, the concert was a grand affair.

However, he said, he didn't like some of the "liberties" taken with the Mozart score. Either the conductor was wrong or "Mozart didn't understand the tremendous scope, power and range of the modern organ."

for survivors after the wreckage was found. The B-29 was attached to the 52nd Air Rescue Squadron.

Among the 23 men on the giant atomic B-36 bomber was a U. S. Air Force general Brig. Gen. Richard E. Ellsworth, 41, commanding officer of the Rapid City, S. D. Air Force base.

The medical team moved overland from nearby Fort Pepperell Air Base to the crash scene, on bleak Random Island and radioed the terse report at 11 p. m. (9:30 p. m. EST), command spokesman said. The team decided to await daylight before making a further search and had not reported, further.

Fishermen, who were first to reach the bomber late yesterday reported they had recovered seven bodies. The medical team did not report whether any more had been located.

"It was too dark for the team to make a thorough search of the area," a Northeast Command spokesman said. "It's rugged country though and we have no idea when the men will be able to make a complete report."

A spokesman said the command had received "a strictly unofficial report" that the B-36 had exploded. He refused to elaborate when asked whether the reported explosion occurred in flight or when the plane crashed.

Air Force spokesmen at Rapid City, S. D., where the plane was based, early today released the names of 19 of the men aboard the bomber and said they were considered "missing."

The public information officer at the Rapid City Base said one of the passengers aboard the bomber was Brig. Gen. Richard E. Ellsworth, 41, commanding officer at the base. The ship was from the 28th strategic reconnaissance wing based at Rapid City and was en route home from Lages Air Force base in the Azores on a routine training mission.

The $3,500,000 bomber, crashed near Trinity Bay on the east coast of Newfoundland after reporting by radio that two engines had failed. A B-36 is built with six engines, although some models in addition have four auxiliary jet engines.

day was the fourth successive public occasion in which he had made what amounted to a friendly gesture toward Russia. Asked whether he had received any direct response, the President said he knew only what he had seen in the newspapers.

He pointed out, also, that before he was inaugurated he had said publicly that regular diplomatic channels were always open for the presentation of any ideas leading toward peace and that since he had been in office there had been no such presentation to his government by the Soviet Union.

Other news conference highlights touching on the international scene:

1. He defended his nomination of Charles E. Bohlen to be ambassador to Russia as a very wise appointment. He thus challenged the stand of Sen Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) who opposes Bohlen.

2. He said as far as he is concerned, the fighting in Korea is a war. He said this after reporters reminded him that in a speech yesterday he twice termed the conflict "the Korean war" whereas his predecessor, ex-President Truman, called it a "police action."

The President said that when one sees American soldiers drafted is which was flown to Denmark by a Polish pilot seeking political asylum.

The offer of rewards and the order to force down Western military aircraft, these sources said, may explain recent Soviet and Czechoslovak attacks on British and American planes in which an American jet fighter and a British bomber have been shot down.

"While there is no official exchange between the ruble and the U. S. dollar the Soviet reward for forcing down 'Western' Allied planes would amount to about $8,250 at the Soviet valuation of the ruble.

The sources who reported the reward offer and the Moscow order said the Soviets were bitter over Denmark's refusal to immediately return the MIG to Poland. It was the first of the sleek, super-sonic Russian fighters to fall intact into Western hands.

The Polish pilot, Franciszek Garkocki, 21, has been granted political asylum and has been spirited out of Denmark to an undisclosed refuge in the West.

Weather to Get Warmer in Midwest

By United Press

Warmer weather was predicted throughout the Midwest today as soon as a cold front completes its eastward journey.

The cold front which moved east of the Mississippi Valley yesterday brought a small tornado that dipped into the outskirts of Fort Wayne, Ind., amid strong gales and severe hail, but did little damage and disappeared.

A partly completed frame house was picked up and smashed on a nearby highway by the tornado.

Warmer temperatures were expected in the Western and Southern Plains states, with the warming trend to extend from the Rockies to the Appalachians by tomorrow.

Meanwhile, continued rain was forecast all along the Pacific Coast down to San Francisco after more than an inch fell within 24 hours yesterday.

Rain also was reported in the Middle Atlantic States as mostly cloudy and mild weather prevailed along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts. Moderate amounts of rainfall were reported from the Mississippi Valley to the East Coast yesterday.

Arkansas got the biggest soaking yesterday with 2.63 inches at Fort Smith.

Florida and Southern Texas were the warmest parts of the country yesterday, with Miami setting the pace at 83 degrees. Freezing temperatures were reported in Iowa, Wisconsin and Michigan only today after the mercury dropped 10 to 15 degrees during the night.

Taft and Ike Form Firm Partnership

By LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-O.) have formed a firm and powerful partnership in the first eight weeks of the new Republican administration.
That may prove to be the No. 1 political development in the experience of the Eisenhower administration, so far. It has come about more by the cooperative attitude of the senator than from any friendly beckoning by the executive department.
Some observers here are convinced that several of Mr. Eisenhower's most important aides deliberately gave Taft a political hazing during the preinaugural period. He was invited, for example, to suggest persons for the cabinet.
Herbert Brownell, Jr., now attorney general, conferred solemnly with Taft whereafter the senator was asked twice where he lived. George M. Humphrey, from Taft's home state, was named treasury secretary without a preliminary word to the senator. He read about it in the papers. Martin P. Durkin's nomination to be labor secretary hit Taft even harder.
"Incredible," the senator exclaimed. Thereafter he led a delegation to the White House and worked out a patronage system whereby senators would be consulted about nominees from their states. No Taft recommendation was accepted for the first Republican cabinet in 20 years.

Minister May Figure in State Incident

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—It had not been determined today if a minister whose name was coupled with communism in Congress yesterday is the same clergyman who was involved in an Arkansas cotton choppers strike in 1936.
Rep. Donald L. Jackson (R-Calif.), told the House that the Rev. Claude C. Williams of Birmingham reportedly told a public meeting that he (Williams) was in the church "because I can reach people easier that way and get them organized for communism."
Minister at Birmingham said the minister had not lived there in a number of years.
Little Rock newspaper files showed that a Rev. Claude C. Williams of Little Rock claimed he and a Memphis social worker were beaten near Earle, Ark., on June 15, 1936, during a cotton choppers' strike.
Williams' charge eventually was brought to the attention of President Franklin D. Roosevelt who directed the attorney general to investigate the incident.
The Little Rock Williams, who identified himself as a Presbyterian, said he and Miss Willie Sue Blagden, 23, of Memphis, were beaten with the backhand from a mule harness by six "men at the planter class."
He said he and the social worker were investigating the reported "slaying" of a Negro sharecropper, Frank Weeks, who later was found alive.
Williams said he had been asked by H. L. Mitchell, executive secretary of the Southern Tenant Farmers Union, to preach a funeral at Earle for Weeks, who Mitchell said had "died" of injuries suffered in a beating and had been buried secretly.
The minister said he investigated because he didn't want to conduct a mock funeral.
According to newspaper files,

Basketball Coaches, Officials
Kiwanis Club Officials

The Prescott Kiwanis Club invited basketball coaches and officials participating in the State Tournament held at local gymnasium to be their guests at dinner Thursday night. Attendance was good. Mr. Barnett, executive secretary of the Arkansas Athletic Association expressed to the members of the club his appreciation for the hospitable manner in which Prescott residents had received the contesting teams and coaches. This was the second year that the State "B" tournament had been held in Prescott and many of the team members were entertained in Prescott homes.
The program was under direction of Jim Nelson and was in recognition of the Keep Arkansas Green program. He held a question and answer contest relative to the importance of forestry in Arkansas; winner was Bill Bensberg with a score of 100.

Mrs. Regan Honored
Mrs. J. D. Regan, who leaves soon with her family for Rogers to make their home, was honored with a morning party and handkerchief shower on Friday given by Mrs. Harold Lewis, Mrs. J. O. Coleman and Mrs. Ed Smith in the home of the former.
The coffee table was graced with a dainty arrangement of violets. Bouquets of jonquils were placed at points of interest.
Mrs. Regan received a corsage of white baby mums. The beautiful handkerchiefs were presented to her on a silver tray by Mrs. Coleman.
The refreshment table was overlaid with a lace cloth and held a centerpiece of King Alfred jonquils and acacia.
There were thirty guests.

Jess Hays Complimented
Mrs. Al Williams entertained with a dinner at her home on Sunday evening for the pleasure of her brother, Jess Hays, in celebration of his birthday anniversary.
The dinner was served buffet style from the dining table that was covered with an imported lace and cutwork cloth centered with a crystal bowl filled with white mums and flanked by white tapered tapers with green mallow bows in matching holders.
St. Patrick place cards marked the covers for twenty-three guests at small tables centered with a white taper tied with green mallow in a crystal holder.

Games were played during the evening with prizes being won by Mrs. S. B. Scott, Lt. Col. S. B. Scott, Archie Johnson and Mrs. Carl Dalrymple.
Mrs. Williams was assisted by Miss Virginia Ann Hays, Mrs. Jess Hays and Mrs. E. M. Sharp.

Center HO Club Meets
The Center Home Demonstration club met on Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Ed Clark for the monthly meeting.

Mrs. Neil Meeks and Mrs. Jesse Griffin were guests from the Redland club. Mrs. Meeks gave the devotional talk.
The president, Mrs. Olin Wells, conducted the business and Mrs. Madge Burgess told about the cake baking contest that will be held in the near future.

Miss Blanche Randolph, food specialist from the extension office in Little Rock, cooked a meal of vegetables.

Williams was convicted in 1935 of barratry (encouraging of maintaining lawsuits or quarrels) at Ft. Smith, in connection with demonstrations by discontented relief workers.

Williams also organized the Workers Alliance, an association for the unemployed, at Little Rock in 1935.

Conway Firm Must Rehire Workers

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Conway, Ark., manufacturing firm is to rehire 3 employees with full back pay under a National Labor Relations Board order released yesterday.
The NLRB said it agreed with a trial examiner's decision that Ward Body Works, Inc., had engaged in some unfair labor practices.
The decision was handed down on a complaint filed by the CIO United Automobile, Aircraft, Agricultural Implement Workers of America.
Ward was ordered to stop discouraging membership in the union and threatening employees connected with union activities.
Three employees, William L. Bradshaw, Leo W. Stewart and Roy L. Stevenson, were ordered reinstated by the firm with whole restitution for loss of pay. Another worker, Lea Roy Gill, is to be reimbursed for any loss of salary.

Two Children Hurt in Accidents

By The Associated Press
Two children were injured fatally in Arkansas traffic accidents during the past two days.
Five-year-old James Russell Woodward was struck and killed by a car as he ran across the street in front of his Springdale home during a heavy rain yesterday afternoon.

Police still are searching for the car. State Trooper Bill Struening said the incident was witnessed only by James' 8 year old brother, John, who described the car as a late model, heavy car in the Nash or Buick class.
A 3-year-old Morrilton girl, Rita

Dimmitt, was injured fatally Monday when she fell from a car driven by her father. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oval Lee Dimmitt.

GOP Almost Has to Cut the Budget

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration arrived in the White House like a bunch of surgeons with their knives in their hands, just itching to cut the fat out of the budget.

They're conscious everyone is watching the operation. For almost 20 years the Republicans complained the Democrats were over-spending. Let us get in, the Republicans said, and we'll get rid of the fat, get down to the bone. This is their chance and they're taking it.

They don't think they can cut it. If they don't, the Democrats can turn the guns around and fire the same ammunition at them in the 1954 elections.

Already there's a difference of opinion inside President Eisenhower's own official family. Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge wants to trim far more money off the interior Department than Secretary Douglas McKay wants taken.

As usual every January, former President Truman, before leaving the White House, presented Congress with his estimate of what government expenses would be for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

This budget, filling a fat book with itemized government operations and costs, wasn't flung together by a couple of White House secretaries while Truman was busy packing his trunks.

The budget was the result of a lot of work by a lot of people who started on it as long ago as last summer, particularly in the huge Defense and State Departments which have to think it world terms.

Everywhere officials in department bureaus and commissions figured their costs for the next year. This might not be too hard in the case of a small bureau with a set job and fixed staff. But it is colossal for the Defense and State Departments.

When all the estimates from all over the government were finished they were shuttled into the Bureau of the Budget which has a staff paid to try to cut down the estimates made by the rest of the government.

And, when all that was done and there was a difference of opinion between the Budget Bureau and a department, Truman had to make the decision before the fat budget book was printed and sent to Congress.

The Truman budget called for spending $78½ billion dollars. But, before the government gets any of that money to spend, Congress goes over the budget, too, and looks for places to cut because it's Congress which votes the money.

That 78½ billions of Truman's looked too big to the Eisenhower administration. As soon as it took over it went to work on its own estimates, looking for that often-mentioned fat.

The Eisenhower people are still busy, and Congress is waiting to get a report from them.

With him into the government as chief financial surgeon, Eisenhower brought Dodge, a 62-year-old Michigan banker, and made him head of the Budget Bureau. He has to go over all the same ground traveled by the Trumanites.

After looking over the Interior Department's operations Dodge thought its money requirements could be reduced 200 million dollars below Truman's figures which were really the figures of the old secretary of the interior, Oscar Chapman.

But now the 59-year-old McKay, former governor of Oregon and an early Eisenhower booster, as interior secretary. He has the job, for which Eisenhower picked him, of trying to make the Interior Department run all right.

And, try as he might, he can't see where Interior can stand a cut of any more than 54 million below the Truman-Chapman estimate. Yet, his figure is only one fourth the cut Dodge thinks Interior should take.

He may not battle with Dodge at a Cabinet meeting, but he is determined to oppose Dodge's estimate when he has to go before the congressional committees which will make the final decision on how much money Interior needs.

This difference of opinion within the Eisenhower official family is the only one that's come to light. There probably will be others. Most likely places will be in the Defense and State Departments.

The Reluctant Cinderella

by JENNIFER AMES

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR
HAVING found Jason, Carol said urgently, "Derek told me to wait here. He's going to stay at the Driftwood Inn in Vero Beach."

He gave a low whistle. He said, after a pause, "I admire her nerve, but I'm puzzled."

She went on: "She wants to marry Derek. Apparently she thinks he's keener on her than he is. I can't understand it, because I don't believe she's in love with him."

"He's rich," he pointed out dryly. "But so is she."

There was another pause. "I think dear Aunt Thelma is determined not to be left out on a limb," he remarked cryptically. "Thanks for the information. It may help," he added.

She remembered she had never told him about the strange conversation she had overheard between Thelma and Don the night of the staff dance. Both "Maxie" and the word "blackmail" had been mentioned. He listened intently.

"Why didn't you tell me this before?" he asked, when she'd finished.

"I suppose I felt a certain loyalty to Mrs. Felton."

"You don't any longer?"

"You're going to marry Derek?"

"I'd be a fool not to, as you pointed out this evening. She spoke vehemently, bitterly. But even if I don't, I'm not going back to work at Felton's."

He nodded slowly, but didn't comment. She knew she should go. Derek would be wondering what had become of her, but she wanted any excuse to stay with Jason. The band was playing again.

She said impulsively, "Jason, dance this one with me."

He looked down at her oddly. "A waiter dancing with one of the guests? And Derek? Supposing he saw us?"

She gave her small head a fierce shake. "I'm sick of being wise, or of trying to be."

He didn't reply, but in the dark garden they danced around the small table. Her heart was throbbing.

For a moment he held her so closely she could scarcely breathe. Then just as abruptly he let her go.

"That's enough, darling. Run along back to Derek." His voice was strange, husky.

She turned and ran. She was inside the closed verandah now, among the dancers, the lights, the small tables packed closely together. Derek was making his way around the dancing couples towards her.

"Carol, what happened to you? I thought I saw you out in the garden talking to one of the waiters." There was a faint note of censure in his voice.

"I know. I stopped to ask him something. I found out he came from England."

"Are you all that homesick, Carol? You must talk to one of the waiters just because he's English?" he asked quietly.

Her small face flushed. "Perhaps I am homesick."

His face softened. "I don't want you to be, Carol. I'll do my best to prevent your being homesick in future. Let's dance this, shall we?"

Julie was sitting across the dance floor with her party. There was much noise and laughter. Carol glanced at her wristwatch: it was almost eleven o'clock. A few minutes later she saw Julie murmuring something to her husband and slipping away.

She's going out to meet Jason, Carol thought, and she was sick with jealousy. Humiliating, but it was painfully real.

She danced several more dances with Derek. The party at the Galleys' table had dispersed. She noticed Ben and some of the men standing in the adjoining bar.

She felt tense and keyed up, as though she were waiting for something. As she danced, she kept looking around to see if Julie had returned, but half an hour, three quarters of an hour passed, and there was no sign of her.

A few minutes before twelve o'clock, Ben came into the room and looked around anxiously. He hesitated, then came up to the table where Derek and she were sitting. His protruding eyes, with the pouches under them, looked worried.

"Hello, Carol. Hello, Derek. Sorry, I haven't spoken to you before, but we're with a party. . . . Say, you haven't seen Julie recently?"

Carol shook her head. "No, I haven't."

"Wonder where she can have gone? Maybe she isn't feeling well and is lying down in the powder room. You wouldn't care to take a look for me? She wasn't feeling too fit when we started out."

Carol got up at once. "Of course, Mr. Gallet."

"Thanks—and call me Ben." He made a show of cordiality. "Care to come to the bar and have a drink, Derek?"

"Well, just one. I don't suppose Carol will be long," Derek said.

Julie wasn't in the powder room. The attendant, who knew her, hadn't seen Mrs. Gallet. Surely Julie and Jason couldn't be talking in the garden all this time? It wasn't wise, with Ben looking for her. She decided to warn Julie if she could find her. The moon had slipped behind some clouds; the air was colder, the wind was rising as though a storm was blowing up. It was dark down by the sea wall. The wind was lashing up the waves, hurling them against the shore. Carol was shivering and wished she had brought her jacket. At the far end of the garden, where the lights from the hotel didn't penetrate, she saw the outline of a large coconut palm. She went towards it slowly, but it wasn't until she was quite close that she saw a whitish-gray bundle lying beneath it. She hurried forward. Julie was lying face downward beneath the palm. She was unconscious. A large coconut lay within a few feet of her.

Carol bent down and shook her shoulder. "Julie . . . Julie . . ."

No movement, no response. She must get help quickly. . . . And where was Jason? Had they met, or had Julie been waiting for him when this happened? But he wouldn't have left her like this.

Why had Julie stayed out here alone?

She ran back towards the hotel and into the bar, where Ben and Derek were sitting on high stools before the counter. Derek swung round and asked quickly, "What's the matter, Carol? You look—"

"Where's Julie?" Ben interposed. "Carol had difficulty in getting her breath. She's out—out in the garden. She's lying out there, unconscious."

Ben stared at her. His hard-featured face was expressionless; his protruding eyes might have been granite. "Show me," he said.

The three of them ran back across the dark lawn. The high wind was making the palm leaves rattle like tin foil scraping together. It blew back Carol's hair and her dress, outlining her body in a huddle, her arms outstretched, the diamond necklace glittering faintly in the intermittent moonlight.

"Julie, Julie, my darling," Ben muttered. Carol was stunned to see that tough little man's body was racked with sobs.

Carol felt exhausted when she went to the shop next morning. She had scarcely slept. The events of the night kept crowding in on her, the horror of finding Julie lying in a huddle under the coconut palm. Ben's surprising breakdown that seemed so out of character, her own talk with Jason.

Derek had taken command of the situation last night, making Ben pull himself together. They had both carried Julie back into the hotel. Luckily a doctor had been on the premises. It was concussion, he diagnosed, serious but not dangerous. It was lucky, he said, that she must have turned her head almost at the moment of the impact; otherwise, the blow would probably have caught her on the base of the skull.

An ambulance had been called and had driven Julie home, where the Galleys' own doctor and a nurse had been hastily summoned to attend to her. The incident had been kept as quiet as possible. Every- one spoke of it as an accident; the high wind of it had obviously blown the coconut. It had happened before the doctor remembered that the hood of his Cadillac convertible had been wrecked two years ago by a coconut, when he'd parked it under a palm tree. The doctor expressed regret, though, as he pointed out, such an accident could happen to anyone. Ben was completely calm now, the same hard-faced little man with the protruding eyes she had first met. Looking at him as he had given the necessary orders, Carol could scarcely believe he had actually knelt over Julie sobbing like a baby.

Derek had driven her home almost immediately afterwards. When they got there, he kissed her good night and reminded her of her promise to go up to Vero Beach with him when Thelma arrived. She slipped out of his arms quickly, pleading tiredness, but once she'd shut the door of her apartment, she felt very much alone and frightened.

One Bill Tamed Constitutional

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — At least one "local" bill passed by the 1953 Arkansas Legislature has been held unconstitutional.

Atty. Gen. Tom Gentry said yesterday that a measure to increase Pulaski County cities' share of the 3-mill county road tax to 75 per cent was local legislation and is prohibited by the Constitution.

Cities now receive 50 per cent of the levy on property located within city limits.

Gov. Cherry had not signed the bill.

Survey of Gold Shows Its There

By FRAM O'Brien and ED CREGAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unprecedented check of the nation's gold and silver and coin has ended and a Treasury official said today, "everything is there."

That was a short report from Leland Howard, assistant director of the Mint, on a big subject: nearly 23 billion dollars worth of gold at Ft. Knox, Ky., and elsewhere, plus two billions worth of silver bullion and about 300 million dollars worth of coin not in circulation.

One shortage did turn up during an audit of the books of the former treasurer of the United States, a lady Democrat.

Don't look for a congressional investigation though.

The missing sum was only $10, and the government got it back, and the rest of the $32,410,280,783.10 plus two-thirds of a cent is right where the former treasurer, Mrs. Georgia Neese Clark Gray, said it would be.

So the Treasury is sending Mrs. Gray a receipt from her successor, Republican Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, and everybody is happy.

All this checkup was inspired by a recent change in administration.

A committee appointed jointly by former Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder and new GOP Secretary Humphrey looked into accounting and guarding methods and found they included "every feasible safeguard." But it suggested that a new committee make spot checks of gold and silver and coin.

Asked today whether the check had been completed, and, if so, if anything had been found missing, Howard told a reporter:

"No, sir. Everything is there. The official report is being prepared and won't be out for some time, but it will show everything is where it should be."

Speedy Action on FSA Plan Expected

By CHARLES F. BARRETT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of both parties predicted House approval today of a resolution to speed action on President Eisenhower's plan to replace the Federal Security Agency with a new Cabinet level department of health education and welfare.

But a party-line floor fight loomed over Democratic charges that Republicans are trying to "rail road" the proposal through Congress without giving members time to consider it.

The resolution by Chairman Hoffman (R-Mich.) of the government operations committee would put Eisenhower's first government reorganization plan into effect 10 days after the resolution is passed by Congress and signed by the President. The Senate has not acted on it.

Reorganization plans automatically go into effect unless disapproved by either the House or Senate 60 days after they are submitted. The effect of the Hoffman resolution would be to waive most of this waiting period. Eisenhower submitted the plan March 12.

Aside from attacking the speed-up, Democrats argued that Republicans voted almost solidly against similar reorganization plans submitted by former President Truman.

Republicans have said they feared Democrats would use the reorganization to push what they call "socialized medicine," but they say they have no such fears under the Eisenhower administration.

Few Democrats spoke against the reorganization itself. But the picture was complicated by a move yesterday by Rep. Bennett (D-Fla.), who offered a resolution to ask to see Ballet Stockings—today . . . to give your legs and your budget a real lift!

Ballet Stockings are a product of Burlington Mills.

Speedy Action on FSA Plan Expected

By CHARLES F. BARRETT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of both parties predicted House approval today of a resolution to speed action on President Eisenhower's plan to replace the Federal Security Agency with a new Cabinet level department of health education and welfare.

But a party-line floor fight loomed over Democratic charges that Republicans are trying to "rail road" the proposal through Congress without giving members time to consider it.

The resolution by Chairman Hoffman (R-Mich.) of the government operations committee would put Eisenhower's first government reorganization plan into effect 10 days after the resolution is passed by Congress and signed by the President. The Senate has not acted on it.

Reorganization plans automatically go into effect unless disapproved by either the House or Senate 60 days after they are submitted. The effect of the Hoffman resolution would be to waive most of this waiting period. Eisenhower submitted the plan March 12.

Aside from attacking the speed-up, Democrats argued that Republicans voted almost solidly against similar reorganization plans submitted by former President Truman.

Republicans have said they feared Democrats would use the reorganization to push what they call "socialized medicine," but they say they have no such fears under the Eisenhower administration.

Few Democrats spoke against the reorganization itself. But the picture was complicated by a move yesterday by Rep. Bennett (D-Fla.), who offered a resolution to

Casualties in Korea Climb

WASHINGTON (UP) — American battle casualties in Korea now total 131,244, an increase of 252 over last week's report, the Defense Department announced today.

Casualties include 23,209 dead, 95,246 wounded, 9,088 missing, 2,305 captured, and 396 previously reported missing but returned to American military control.

Casualties include all those whose next of kin are notified through last Friday.

It is estimated that about 70 per cent of the meat eaten in North Carolina is pork.
